SEEKING CONTENTMENT

(Philippians 4:11,12)

In a candid interview with Life Magazine a number of years ago, tennis star Chris Evert confessed, "I've had enormous success, but you have to find your own happiness and peace. You can't find it in other things and other people. I'm still searching."

The answer to this athletic star's search for contentment is found in the Apostle Paul's letter to the Philippian church: "I have learned to be content in whatever circumstances I am in. In any and every circumstance I have learned the secret of being filled and going hungry, both of having abundance and suffering need." (Philippian 4:11,12)

We can learn two lessons from these texts. @First, contentment must be learned by experience. It is not part of our genes given to us by our parents and there is no earthly school or teacher who can instruct us this important lesson of life.

@Secondly, Christian contentment should be a growth experience. One author has penned it well in these words, It's all right to be content with what you have, but not with what you are."

@Thirdly, true contentment can only be found in a personal relationship with Jesus Christ. "I can do everything through Him Who gives me strength." (Philippians 4:13).

Dear Lord, today, help us to be content with blessing that we have, and to willingly give as you have blessed us. Amen
